We use reed beds to clean our spent lees waste before it is put back into nature.

The entire process has been designed to create an overall flavour profile that is expected from this area: gentle peat smoke, rich oily/honey and dark fruit palate, pepper, sea salt and a little more smoke in the finish.

Our bottle is one of the lightest in the industry, it is produced using over 50% recycled clear glass.

We're selling our whisky without gift box. Reducing waste and shipping weight significally.

We use the latest label paper technology, crushed barley waste, to make a difference and add value.

This whisky is honed and inspired by the finest and most spectacular location of any distillery in Scotland – The Ardnamurchan Peninsula

We have a dedicated Green Team that is constantly looking at ways to improve how we do things.

Recognition in the shape of awards and media means a lot to us, but it isn't the reason why we practise responsible distilling.
